Coaching4Clergy Now Provides Accredited Coach-Specific Training Hours for the ICF

Have you heard the news? Coaching4Clergy recently received our accreditation as an International Coach Federation training organization – officially, we are an Accredited Coach-Specific Training Hours (ACSTH) provider of up to 65 hours (for now).

This ICF "stamp of approval" has opened us up to connect with a whole new set of people – literally the whole world! As my coach would say, I'm definitely "playing a bigger game."

For years I've wanted Coaching4Clergy to be a global organization, and now I can say that we are, and be fully in integrity. This is a lot to celebrate and yet we're just at the tip of the iceberg.

This process meant that someone outside our organization has put our training, trainers and process under a microscope and said, "This is all good," and that's a real affirmation of what we're doing.

It also legitimizes our global vision of "every pastor, ministry staff and church leader a coach," which you may have read about in the free e-book, The Next Great Awakening. And even though the ICF hasn't formally endorsed this vision, they've approved our training methods and that is a big part of how we're bringing our vision into reality.

So as we invite you into our unfolding story, I hope that you take from this announcement the assurance that visions CAN happen, and they happen in their own time – after many years, in some cases. And when we can keep reaching for possibilities, stay positive and keep taking the actions that are in front of us today, we can be inspired by our gentle progress; while also inspiring others.
